Rev. Thomas U. Dudley's Remarks, at the Public Meeting in Baltimore in Memory of Gen. Lee.

Mr. Dudley said he counted himself happy that, though almost a stranger in this home of his adoption, he was permitted to speak as a Confederate soldier to Confederate soldiers gathered about the effigy of their leader who is gone, because he knew that their hearts beat as his heart. He counted himself happy that, by the courtesy of the Committee of Arrangements, he was permitted to bring his little flower to add to the royal wreath of immortelles; they were gathered to place on the grave of their father-chieftain, who was gone. Yes, they have buried him to day, brother soldiers, in his mountain home, 'neath the church he had builded. Perhaps some day a nation shall demand that his dust shall be buried near her capital. Perhaps some day the Richmond he defended will guard the precious remains. Let him be buried there-not on the hill with the Presidents, but bury him where the boys lie, that when the grand rcveille sounds they may behold their chieftain in their midst. For that grand reveille will sound, and it is of this that he would speak. He came not to speak of him as patriot-for they had been told by one who knew and loved him long, who had sat at his feet as his pupil, the capacity of his great heart to take in its embrace all the land he served. He would not speak of him as soldier to men who had seen under his prescient guidance a handful chase a came to speak of him, not as patriot, but as not cheaper, than the cheapest, at c. C. C. BERRY'S. Christian patriot; not as soldier, but as Christian incident as illustrative:-It was in the beginning | BLANKETS, &c of that long cold winter of 1969 of that long cold winter of 1862, when the battles round Richmond had been fought, and Manassas and Sharpsburg, that the army, weary of the hard campaign, was camped on those bleak hills about Winchester. An order came for a grand review-one of those sad displays we can so well remember - so sad, and yet necessary to the discipline and efficiency of the army. There were no bright trappings nor glitter of gold, the only glitter was the fire of determination in brave men's hearts. But all would appear in their best. There was a chaplain who, in obedience, as he believed, to this order, put on the pure white robe of his office and went to the review. Doubtless he heard the derisive laugh, the socering remarks of those about him; but when the command he marched with passed the great chief the officers tell us that, lifting his hat, he said: -"I salute the Church of God." The eye that was he served. It was when the boom of the occasional gun could be heard in Richmond. Sev en Pines had been fought and won. The Sev en Day's fight had not yet begun. In a chamber in the beleaguered city an aged minister of God lay dying. Could our eyes have penetrated the recesses of that chamber in the close of one afternoon, we should have seen the hero whom we mourn, booted and spurred, fresh from his victorious legions, kneeling by the bedside of the dying Bishop to receive his blessing, that he might certify him by this sign of the favor and goodness of the God he served. We should have heard the words of blessing, "Robert, Robert"-for he had held him in his arms in infancy—"stand up for our country and God will bless you." Was he Christian? Thus soldiers, he saluted, with lifted hand and bended knee, and humble heart, the Church of God. Remember it, not only patriot, soldier, but Christian. Therefore we are comforted, because the light busy inspecting the accourrements, the arms,

the troops in which he trusted to do the work

he had to do, could see the chaplain's robe.

The commander who sat in the immovable majesty we can remember so well, bended his unthat streams from one open tomb, makes bright all the darkness of the place whither he is gone. The sad expression, we can remember so well, is gone from his face now, for the burden of the Lost Cause no more oppresses his heart; because he has been a soldier in the cause that can never be lost. It no more grieves him that the conquered banner is folded and weary, for he has fought bravely and well under the banner that floats triumphant from the hattlements of heaven, and shall float for-There is left to us, brother soldiers, none than the mournful privilege to tell over to our hearts, and to our children, the battles, sieges, fotunes he had passed. There is left to us the grand example of God's faithful servant, that we may follow. He being dead, yet speaketh, bidding you, his soldiers, to enlist under this Christian banner. This is his command. You did never fail to follow where he led; you did never flinch or falter to do his bidding. This is the command he speaks: Enlist and battle for God and Christ, so that, when our end shall come, we, too, like him, may ever wrap the drapery of our couch about us, and lay us down, not to dreams, but to the eternal realities which eye hath not seen nor ear heard, nor hath entered into the heart of man, but which God hath prepared for them that love Him-that we too, may hear, as we trust he has heard, the greeting:

Soldier of Christ, well done! Kest from thy loved employ! Thy battle's o'er, thy victory won-Enter thy Master's joy.

WASHINGTON ITEMS,-Yesterday an accident occurred in the wine and liquor establishment of Shomsker & Herizog, near the Na tional Theatre, by which a quantity of wines and liquors of the choicest brands, and amounting in value to near $2,000, was destroyed. The case on which the bottles were arranged along the wall had been too heavily loaded, and the weight pulled the staples by which it was secured from the wall, and the entire contents went to the floor with a crash.

The opening session of the Methodist Epis-copal Sunday School Convention of the Sunday School Union of Baltimore and the District of Columbia at the Metropolitan Church, last night, was fully attended, and the proceedings were of a very interesting character.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, un-fitting them for either busines, study, society or marriage. These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by the early habits of youth, viz: Weaknese of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspep. sia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY — The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Lemory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion to Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, nervous and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms

Who have injured themselves by a certain practice, already described, a habit frequently learned from evil companions or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured, rerders marriage impossible, and destroys both and body, should apple immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the pride of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyment templating MARRIAGE, Reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubi-al happiness. Indeed, without these the jour-ney through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospect hourly darkens to the view, the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melanopolar reflection that the happiness.

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability on who, from education and respectability, can alone betriend him, delaying till the constitu-tional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim ler returns." It is a melancholy fact that thousands DIE victims to this terrible disease, through falling into the hands of ignorant or unskilful PRE-TENDERS, who, by the use of that deadly Poison, Mercury, &c., destroy the constitution, and incapable of curing, keep the unhappy sufferer month after month taking their noxious or injurious compounds, and instead of being restored to a renewal of Life, Vigor and Happiness, in despair leave him with ruined Health
